

New York Law Journal May 4, 2010

The Federation of Protestant Welfare Agencies presented its Keystone Award to Sean Delany, executive director of Lawyers Alliance for New York, at the FPWA's annual conference last month at New York University's Kimmel Center for Student Life. The Lawyers Alliance was recognized for its pro bono contributions to FPWA's member agencies.

Lawyers Alliance for New York connects lawyers, non-profits and communities while the FPWA provides support services to some 300 social service member agencies in New York City.

Meanwhile, Mr. Delany and John Fouhey, senior counsel at Davis Polk & Wardwell, will accept awards from BronxWorks at its annual event on Thursday at the Hard Rock Café at Yankee Stadium.

Mr. Delany served as pro-bono counsel for BronxWorks for nearly 15 years, representing the group in its 1993 merger with Girls Club of New York. He became board chair in 1999, a position from which he recently resigned.

John Fouhey has provided pro bono counsel to BronxWorks on various matters since 1993. He has served as treasurer and board member of the group. He recently retired after practicing for 27 years at Davis Polk. BronxWorks, formerly the Citizens Advice Bureau, helps children and adults overcome economic and social obstacles to improve their quality of life.