

“Program Spotlight – BRONXWORKS”

During the month of April, joyful and culturally rich people of West Bengal celebrate Naba Barsha by performing set customs and traditions. Naba Barsha is the celebration of the Bengali New Year. For Bengalis this celebration is filled with joy, enthusiasm, and hope. It is celebrated through songs, dance, games and reciting poems. Traditional outfits such as the white and red sari are worn by woman while the men clothe themselves in dhotki kurta. The day is spent in feasting with friends and family.

Our children at Bronxworks know all about the Bengali celebrations. They were introduced to the Bengali culture through books, games, arts, food sampling and even their own Bengali celebration. Parents were invited to come and join in on the fun.
