BEDFORD PARK (WABC) -- Supreme Court Justice Sonia Sotomayor made a special visit back home to the Bronx Saturday.

The justice was joined on stage by several children in Bedford Park, where she encouraged them to dream big.

The event was part of a summer-long program created by The Bronx Children's Museum.

The Dream Big Initiative's goal is to inspire children to celebrate their own family histories and to emphasize the importance of dreaming big and working hard to accomplish your goals.
